Mike McLaughlin, Elaine Cox : Leadership Coaching: Developing braver leaders before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Leadership Coaching: Developing braver leaders:

Leadership Coaching offers a new model of coaching for leadership development. It explains how the brave model extends existing leadership theories, and includes specific coaching processes and sense-making techniques to allow the reader to understand how the model would work in practice. The book begins by asking why it is important for leaders to be brave. It provides an overview of existing leadership theories, and their limitations, as well as introducing the brave coaching approach and the elements that comprise the model. The book includes practical case studies that provide insights into the range of applications for the brave leadership coaching framework. Based on academic research, and written in an accessible scholarly style, this book shows how coaching can assist in decision making, leading to a different, braver form of personal and corporate leadership. It should be of interest to students of management, leadership, coaching and mentoring, as well as professional coaches and leaders.

'Leadership Coaching provides convincing arguments for more brave leadership within corporate structures, and is filled with compelling evidence-based insights, conceptual frameworks, and practical examples on how to develop brave leaders. It is a must-read for anyone involved in coaching executives, leaders, and managers who wish to enhance their leadership effectiveness.' - Bob Hamlin, Emeritus Professor and Chair of Human Resource Development, University of Wolverhampton, UK 'Leadership Coaching is essential and powerful reading for coaches and leaders who seek not only high performance, but to lead from the bravery agenda of their moral purpose to address key issues such as equality, sustainability, and environmental justice. This text will not only deepen practice, but also enable critical reflection on what it means to be a brave coach today.' - Jan Robertson, International consultant in coaching and leadership development in education, New Zealand 'This book comes at an opportune time for developing leaders in our VUCA (volatility, uncertainty, complexity and ambiguity) world.
