Andrew Leigh, Michael Maynard : Leading the Way: The Seven Skills to Engage, Inspire and Motivate (Financial Times Series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Leading the Way: The Seven Skills to Engage, Inspire and Motivate (Financial Times Series):

Top down leadership techniques are outdated. Today's organisations are horizontally networked and constantly changing. They need leaders who can adapt, accept risk, collaborate and be transparent. This book distils 40 years of experience into 7 accessible skills that leaders need to thrive in business today. The 7 Irsquo;s of Leadership: Individuality, Insight, Initiate, Involve, Inspire, Improvise, Implement. Containing case studies, examples, questions and checklists, this book will enable you to understand the importance of these skills and will show you how to learn and implement them.

" A compelling read for both current and aspiring leaders. With such a wealth of reference information, the book is not a one-off read but a practical manual that can be referred to again and again. It left me inspired, with ideas to use on a day-to-day basis." Valerie Hughes-D'Aeth, Human Resources, December 2012 From the Back Cover "Are leadership books allowed to be called 'page turners'? If so, this is one of them. Compelling reading, there's something to learn on every page." Mark Henderson, Chief Executive of Home Group
POWERFUL TOOLS FOR DYNAMIC LEADERS
Inspiring leaders are few and far between, yet we always know when we've met one. They leave us feeling engaged, motivated and ready to give that extra 10%. This book outlines the essential skills you need to become that leader, getting the most out of the people around you and boosting your own career and performance along the way. Development experts Andrew Leigh and Michael Maynard show you how to maximise the potential of your innate strengths, whilst driving the core behaviours behind successful leadership.
