Erik Hofmann, Daniel Maucher, Martin Kotula, Oliver Kreienbrink : Performance Measurement and Incentive Systems in Purchasing: More Than Just Savings: 3 (Professional Supply Management) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Performance Measurement and Incentive Systems in Purchasing: More Than Just Savings: 3 (Professional Supply Management):

In recent years, purchasing performance measurement have steadily gained in importance in theory and practice. Yet, in many cases, the focus still remains on cost items, especially savings. Moreover, reported performance ratios in purchasing are frequently called into question in terms of their amount and efficacy. Most of the time, there is no tie-in at all with staff compensations. To meet these and other challenges, this book presents a holistic approach for purchasing performance measurement and the incentive systems associated with it. The following topics are dealt with in detail:

- Purchasing performance measurement on the level of commodity groups and the procurement organization
- Supplier evaluation and performance measurement on the level of the buyer-supplier relationship
- Comprehensive systems for purchasing performance measurement, such as the procurement value added and the purchasing balanced scorecard
- Performance-oriented incentive systems and bonus payments for buyers, procurement organizations and suppliers

Readers are thus provided with comprehensive guidelines for the implementation and realization of sustained performance measurement and incentivization in purchasing.

About the Author
The authors of this series are researchers of the University of St.Gallen, scientists of other leading international research centers with the focus on procurement and supply chain management, consultants of Kerkhoff Consulting and practitioners. As a result of the frequent formation of mixed teams, consisting of authors with theoretical and practical background, a close link between these disciplines occurs.
